

SUNDAY AT THE CHURCHES

Pastors will confer a favor on the Herald by sending in changes in their church services regularly. To insure publication they should be in the office not later than Saturday morning.—Editors.

Christian Church.

There will be the usual services tomorrow:

Sunday school, 9:30 a. m.
Junior Endeavor, 3 p. m.
Christian Endeavor, 6:30 p. m.
Preaching, 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.
At the night service the pastor will take the answers to the question "If I Could Live Life Over Again" as the basis for his sermon.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

L. D. ANDERSON, Pastor.

Centenary Methodist Church.

There will be regular services at Centenary Methodist church tomorrow. The church will be glad to welcome all who will come. An opportunity of joining the church will be given to any who wish to unite with us.

At the night service we will use the song book used in the Stuart meeting. Come and join in the song service at 7:30 p. m.

Church Notice.

Rev. C. W. Myers of the First Congregational church will not return until next week, and expects to fill his pulpit as usual on Sunday, Nov. 17.

M. J. FULTON, Clerk.

A Good Idea.

This little, short-lived money scare, originating in Wall street greed, and New York politics, makes me tired. Its chief intent is a blow at my friend Roosevelt. By the way, if anybody is afraid to put money in the banks, bring it to Patrick's Drug Store and invest it in MISERY MOVER or CHILD'S FRIEND.

Misery Mover is good as gold, and The Child's Friend is better than Castoria.

LATE FASHION NOTES

New York.—Some of the color combinations that are seen are not pleasing to think of, but are really very attractive when seen in the costume. One rose-pink net was mounted over golden yellow satin and had satin bows of a dull heliotrope in the bodice and skirt. Nattier blue combined with plum and prune are very effective. The new rose, the peacock blue and green are popular. The canary yellow seems to be the favorite for evening frocks. There are sometimes as many as five different colors on many of the Parisian gowns.

The smart three piece costumes are in vogue. They are worn to theatres and restaurants and anywhere that kind of a toilette is suitable. The skirt and loose wrap are made of velvet or cloth and the bodice of net, satin or chiffon, trimmed with the heavier material.

Colored linen turn-down collars embroidered in white are worn with the taffeta waists and tailored suits. A jabot of sheer white material embroidered in the color of the turn-over is worn in the front, or a smart little bow of the same silk at the waist. There are also narrow cuffs of this linen which are set under the cuffs of the blouse.

The princess skirt is by no means to be set aside this winter. The great dress-makers are showing new and elaborate models in this style, just at the time when they are pronounced too common by the people in general. The latest princess skirts are trailing but are not too full at the foot-line. They reach three inches above the waist, and the drapery, for it can hardly be called a blouse, is fastened to the lining of the skirt. These costumes are made in every material except the heavy street suiting, which makes it evident that they are to be worn only as house gowns.

Because of the popularity of the intense shade of purple, it has made all other bright colors most fashionable. The very latest ones are American Beauty red, bluish purple, lemon yellow, grass green, sapphire blue, rose-wood red and the brightest of pink and turquoise blue. Skirts are seen lined with vivid shades of silk and the coats worn with them have flowered linings in many colors.

The present style of foot-gear is shown in tan, and mostly in high button boots. Light uppers and dark ramps are favorites. These are worn with short tailored costumes for street wear. For evening wear, the shoes and stockings must match the gown in color and the idea of embroidery is carried out the same as in the gown.

The fur coats for this winter are more attractive than ever before. Eton jackets of seal and all the nicer furs are handsomely braided. The cutaway coat with vest of ivory color or some shade matching the hat is very smart. The Chinese sleeve is the noticeable feature on all the fur coats. The new way of trimming is bands of cloth stitched on the seams or outlined with fancy braid. There are coats that have wide velvet cuffs and collar and these are trimmed with lace and soutache. An old fur coat can be made to look new by adding some heads, tails and paws and perhaps some braiding.

Creme Mikado is the newest fabric for evening gowns. It has a delicate softness, with a ground like the very thin Chinese Crepe and is striped with a crinkled weave in self-tone. It comes in the latest colors and will doubtless be liked because it may be combined with gold and bronze tinsel effects which makes it more charming.

SIX, SEVEN AND EIGHT.

His Horses, His Carriages and His Reserve Fund.

Townsend Percy, speculator and promoter, who made and lost more than one fortune in the course of his life, used to be fond of repeating some of his mother's witticisms at his expense, generally brought about by his extravagances during his periods of prosperity. Once Percy had driven four hundred for a year, when an unfortunate deal made it necessary for him to reduce his expenditures and sell his horses, on which occasion she said to him:

"Townsend, don't you think it would be better to drive one horse four years instead of four horses one year?"

Another time, when on the verge of financial crash, Percy still owned a considerable stable and gave no outward sign of pecuniary embarrassment. His mother met an old friend of the family about this period, who congratulated her on her son's success in life. "I am glad that Townsend is doing so well," said the friend.

"Yes, indeed," remarked the old lady. "Townsend has six horses and seven carriages and $8."—Harper's Weekly.

why your baby should be thin, and fretful during the night. Worms are the cause of thin, sickly babies. It is natural that a healthy baby should be fat and sleep well. If your baby does not retain its food, don't experiment with colic cures and other medicine, but try a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, and you will soon see your baby have color and laugh as it should.

For Malarial Poison

JJ-6

Everybody knows that malaria, chills and fever, ague and such disorders, are caused by poison. Do you know how to prevent the poison from getting into your blood; how to drive it away, when there?

Take Thedford's Black-Draught, the great vegetable liver regulator, so successful for over 70 years, throughout the Southern States.

No other like it, except its imitations, and those only in outward appearance.

Appearances, and imitations, are deceitful.

So be sure you insist on the genuine—

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

Edna Rutherford, of Atlanta, Tex., writes: "Thedford's Black-Draught has done me so much good that I wish to publicly acknowledge it. I suffered for five years with dumb chills and fever, more than I can tell. I tried all the medicines I could think of, but they did me no good. At last I took Thedford's Black-Draught and am wonderfully improved. I am better now than I have been for many months, thanks to your wonderful medicine."

Sold everywhere, in 25c and $1.00 packages.
